

CIVIL RIGHTS

US COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS JOURNAL

Fall 1998
Volume 3, Number 1

FEATURES

- 6 Undermining Indian Sovereignty Rights. . .Again
by Paul Alexander
Whether the issue is casino gambling or fishing rights, State officials too often fail to see whose rights are really at stake, and why.
- 18 An End to the Golden Age of Black Participation in Sports?
by Harry Edwards
A call for ending the disqualifying, jailing, and burying of potential star African American athletes, by broadening and reconstituting minority access to school sports programs.
- 25 A Troubling Response to Overcrowded Prisons
by Elizabeth Alexander
With prison populations skyrocketing, especially for minority prisoners, Congress weighed in with corrective legislation—but is justice being served?
- 29 Outlawing Domestic Violence: What Works and What Doesn't
by Pamela Coukos
Despite new laws leading to real progress in curbing violence against women over the last 20 years, the battering of women remains a serious problem nationwide.
- 33 Service Redlining: The New Jim Crow? by Chevon Fuller
Refusing to offer goods and services to minorities living in low-income neighborhoods is both disturbing and illegal, and New York is one State that is trying to stop it.

Page 6

Page 18

Page 33

DEPARTMENTS

- 3 Global Views: Is the U.S. really the World Leader in Disability Rights?
- 14 Close Up: Antonia Hernandez, the Leading Latina Legal Eagle
- 36 Viewpoints: Should the Equal Access Act be Expanded?
- 42 Media: The ABSCAM Scandal Prompted Arab Americans to Organize
- 44 Books: Essays and Reviews
- 67 Letters: From William Taylor, Samuel Rabinove, and others

Page 14

The Civil Rights Journal is published by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, as part of its clearinghouse responsibilities. Editorial inquiries and manuscript submissions should be directed to The Editor, Civil Rights Journal, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, 624 Ninth St., N.W., Washington, DC 20425.

Articles and other material contained herein do not necessarily reflect USCCR policy but are offered to stimulate thinking and discussion about various civil rights issues. No permission is required to quote or reprint contents with the exception of those that are copyrighted by authors or from other publications.

The Civil Rights Journal is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402. Use of funds for producing the Civil Rights Journal has been approved by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.